c) Geopolitical analysis

The Republic of Cuba, the biggest country in the Caribbean, developed as a socialist country after the end of the revolution in 1959. After the fall of the Soviet Union in the early 90s, the country, whose economy was strongly tied to the USSR, entered a long period of economic challenges (“periodo especial”), that ended also through a progressive diversification of the national economy.

However, while many countries (including the whole EU) have revised their position against Cuba and fostered economic, cultural and political exchanges, the embargo imposed on the country by the USA is still heavily affecting not only the growth capacity of the island, but also the life of all the Cubans.

Cuba is currently experiencing a multisystemic crisis marked by a galloping inflation and limited access by the population to basic necessities such as food, health and hygiene products. The country's fuel supply has also been considerably affected, causing recurrent periods of energy and transportation crises. This situation has also led many Cubans to emigrate to the U.S. or European countries.

Summary of HI presence in the country

HI has been working in Cuba since 1998 to contribute to a fairer and more inclusive society for people with disabilities on the island. To this end, it accompanies and supports the four national associations of persons with disabilities and other local actors in initiatives of Community Based Rehabilitation, inclusive education or emergency response. Currently, it pays special attention to the sectors of economic inclusion, community resilience and disaster risk reduction.
